The 1966-67 IBM change-over alleviated old problems, instigated new ones—among them a myriad of scheduling errors.
000067, one victim of the machine,
found himself assigned to seven Whirligig classes!
While he helped harried writers record a year at Grimsley, he set out to achieve a personal aim.
He longed to be more than a mere string of digits, so 000067 strove to discover a unique identity for himself and his own niche in GHS society.

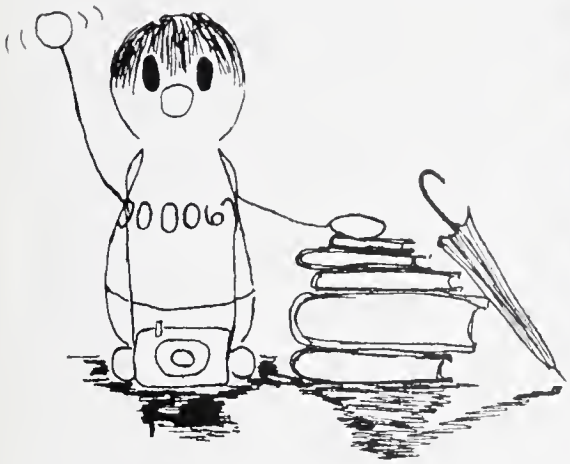
Whirligig 1967

Questing 000067 exemplifies the trait essential to every search

The same compulsion incites a student to grope for knowledge through personal experience and textbook study, motivates intent fans to follow the action far down the field or draws rapt attention from an open house audience. We dedicate this 1967 Whirligig to that incentive always evident in Grimsley's quest for excellence in scholarship, leadership, athletics, and school spirit—curiosity.



Curiosity guided 000067 into the whirl of:

WHIRLIE PILGRIMS trade gay smiles and endless banter as they amble toward morning classes.

"The computer changed room numbers too — now even Seniors get lost."

Opening days are a hectic prelude to the diversity of the GHS scene

GHS COMMUTERS, amid the familiar cadence of afternoon chatter, prepare to board their homeward bound buses.

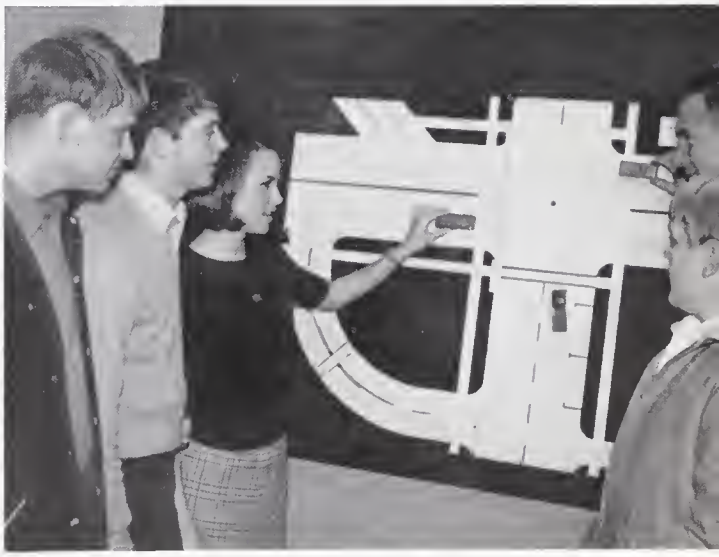
"If they'd paint each bus a different color, maybe I could tell which one is mine."

ORIENTATION ASSEMBLY on the first day captures attention and respect from Sophomores.

"Did he say the first of the last half of the alphabet or the last of the first half? Oh, the woes of a Sophomore!"

DANGLING EARRINGS represent only one of the ever-changing fads that influence our actions, our attire, and our personalities.

"Fads disappear so quickly that you don't have to wear too long what you didn't like in the first place."



DRIVERS' EDUCATION includes classroom instruction as well as behind-the-wheel training.

"It's pretty irritating to have to come to school at 7:30 a.m. just to push little models on a magnetic board."

EARLY MORNING silence is shattered by a rattling locker door.

"A devoted art of all GHS pupils is interior decorating — of lockers. Who knows what he's busy with . . . a safe, pictures, magazines, or refreshments . . . maybe even books!"

EAGER PATRONS assail the school store, a supply center that weekly serves hundreds of customers.

"Someone should set up competition across the hall. Let's see . . . pencils for 3¢, paper for 9¢."

Morning pre-class activity is a kaleidoscope of ever-present salesmen, chatter-filled homerooms, and a bustling clinic

"Couldn't I just charge it?"

INQUISITIVE Sophomores examine carbon copy report cards, a product of the IBM grading system.

"The paper's so thin, it's impossible to erase a grade!"

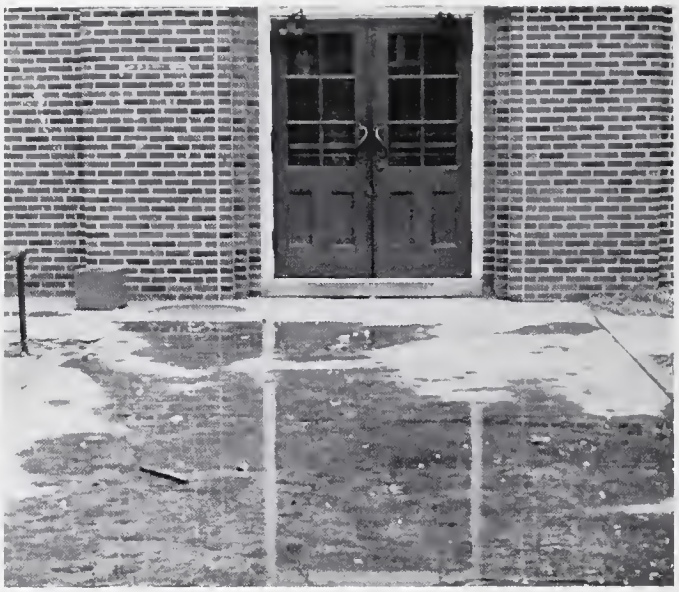
AN UNOBLIGING PROSPECT robs another ticket peddler of the joy of making a sale.

"Concerts, ribbons, pencils, tickets, candy, and buttons — I've spent my allowance for the next six months!"

DEAN STANTON hesitates before accepting a doubtful excuse and granting the desired admit slip.

"Would she believe a visit to a sick aunt on the Friday before Beach Weekend?"

"I think I left my car windows open!"



RAIN PUDDLES reflect the melancholy attitude of weary scholars until more optimistic pedestrians disregard the weather and splatter nature's mirrors.

"Nothing is more welcome than a friendly smile on a rainy day."

AUTUMN WINDS rush across campus, leaving their signatures in scattered leaves or disheveled hair.

"My hair gets tangled when it's windy, but she's really got a problem with hers."

TRAFFIC SQUAD members demonstrate two skills in which they all excel — clowning and girl watching.

"I've still got bruises from the time I tried to go in the out door."

Insistent bells regulate our lives as we dodge puddles, form obedient lines, or ignore Grimsley's own traffic cops

SHORT, SHARP RINGS pierce the air, and willing emigrants desert classrooms for a firedrill, to return reluctantly after a brief respite from studies.

"Firedrills are great, unless it's 32 degrees outside and your coat's in your locker."

DONNING stately robes or waving bright shakers, Seniors recite Chaucer's "Prologue" in imaginative versions.

Impromptu skits, animated discussions, and well-planned speeches enliven the English classes

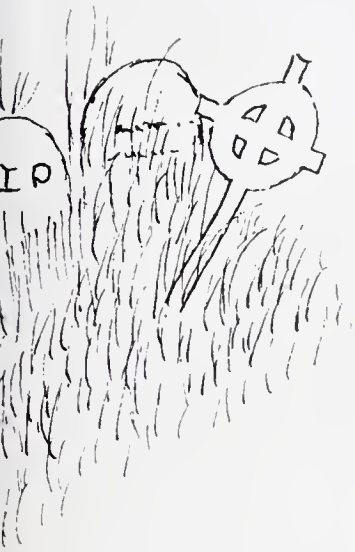
STUDENTS find Shakespeare, charades, and a picnic a pleasant combination as they enact famous lines of the Elizabethan genius.

"A small class like this is so personal that we're all more eager to express our own ideas."

"I wonder if Chaucer would ever have written his Canterbury Tales if he'd known what our generation would do to it?"

BOOK REVIEWER and editorial writer, Bill Yardley, introduces the finer points of his profession to a Junior English class.

"I thought reporting on nine books a year was difficult until I met someone who does a report every week."



"Alas, poor Yorick!"

PRACTICE before critical peers improves the poise of youthful orators.

"Since speaking monopolizes so much of our daily routine, maybe a course in perfecting delivery should be required for everybody."

Experimenting or verifying, we explore exacting principles of science and mathematics

RAPT ATTENTION characterizes physics scholars as they endeavor to master a difficult experiment.

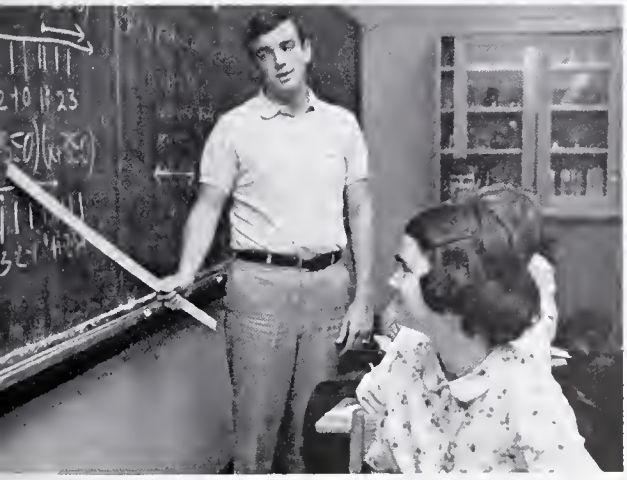
"I wonder if they've tuned in the World Series?"

CONVERTING INCHES to centimeters is a laboratory practice that serves as a basic foundation for further chemistry experiments.

"If there are 2.54 centimeters in one inch, I'd be 152.4 centimeters tall. I suppose that will be useful . . . someday."

TO SOLVE their proofs, frustrated mathematicians resort to three-dimensional aids that illustrate fundamentals of solid geometry.

"I can think of more interesting figures to study than those cones!"



STUDENT EXPLANATION often serves as an effective supplement in algebra courses.

"Advanced math can really get you down, with arrows in two directions and solutions that won't check."

IMAGINATIVE MOBILES, precisely constructed by math students, adorn a geometry classroom.

"It's nice to be able to go creative in math."

SOPHOMORES' FRUSTRATION turns into relief after the completion of a SCAT-STEP test.

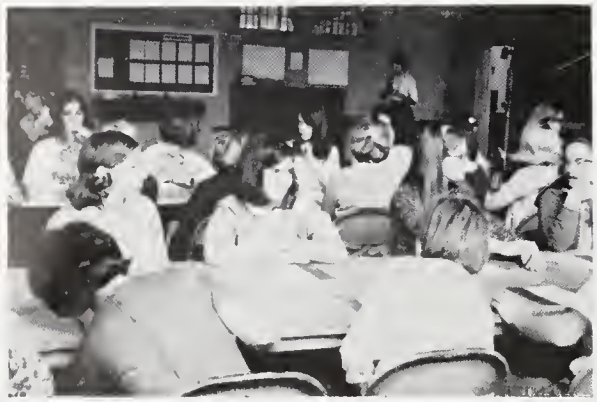
"Patterns you grid on an answer sheet determine your future — that's automation for you!"



COMPARING scores with classmates is often more reassuring than referring to the complicated tables that arrive with test reports.

"400 on a test? Wow! . . . oh, out of a possible 800."

CATALOGUES become essential guides for college-bound Seniors.

"The choice of a college is more than an academic one . . . it's choosing a new home."

MRS. MOODY aids apprehensive Juniors in completing application forms for SAT's.

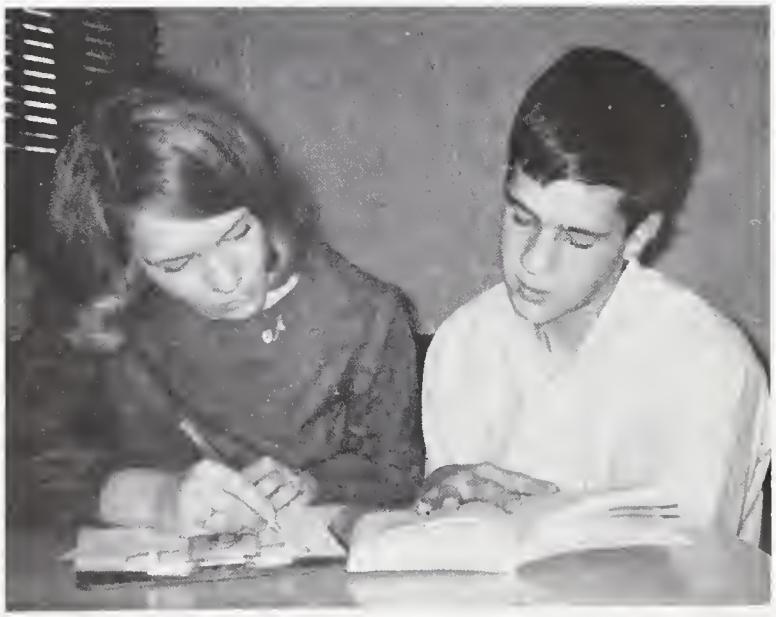
"They say apprehension of something is worse than the crisis itself, but a Saturday morning test is one time the old cliche isn't true."

The guidance center is a dispensary of test scores and sage advice

"Will it never end?"

PARTICIPANTS in Torchlight's tutoring service are instructed and encouraged by volunteer "teachers."

"If someone needs a tutor in the art of being everywhere all the time . . . here I am!"



PERSONAL experiences related by a student who traveled abroad enliven a foreign language class.

"Foreign languages are much more interesting when we hear about the people who speak them."

ENACTING SCENES from Roman history, Latin scholars discover the beauty and significance of Roman traditions.

"It would be less of a strain to climb all the stairs if our textbooks were written on scrolls."

COLORFUL PINATAS set a festive mood for the Spanish Honor Society Christmas party.

"It's a shame to break them, but worth it to catch all that candy."

TV HISTORY classes afford a provocative change from usual classroom routine.

"How do you get questions answered in this class?"

Novel approaches to language and history enhance classroom studies

MR. FREDRICKSON utilizes music of the Nineteenth Century to set a mood in an advanced placement history class.

"Wonder if they'll play our modern music a hundred years from now."

WORLD maps illustrate the influence of geography on the growth of a nation.

"Daydreaming about far away places comes easy in this class."

Providing appreciated services or studying difficult lessons, we welcome free periods

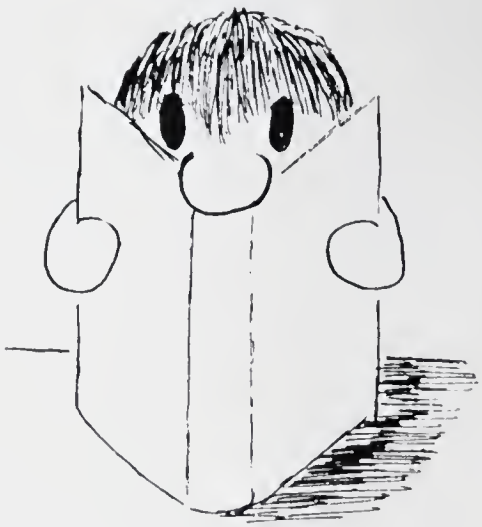
"Shhh! This is the climax!"



A LIBRARY ASSISTANT searches through multitudes of magazines for a requested copy.

"I wonder if she'll find that candy bar I hid behind the Reader's Digest, volume three."

STUDY HALL provides an opportunity to complete assignments or to enjoy essential sleep.

"Who can study with all this silence?"

"STAR OF WONDER," a meaningful play produced by the Senior Class, conveys a simple theme—Christmas is a loving time.

"With all the holiday rush, it's nice to be reminded of the real meaning of Christmas."

A PRESEASON football assembly promotes enthusiastic support for the 1966 team.

"Hearing the cheers echo throughout the stadium makes us feel proud and confident."

Assemblies vary from team-cheering practice to inspirational programs

WEAVING through nervous prospects, a white-robed Torchlight tapper surprises a deserving inductee with the traditional "Follow me."

"You're wanted on the phone, miss."

ASPIRING HOMEMAKERS discover that attractive table settings complement meals and improve appetites.

"This is the class for me. Food, food, food . . ."

CHILD DEVELOPMENT allows students to explore in Grimsley's own kindergarten the miracles of a child's mind.

"If you can ever catch the kid to begin with, keeping his attention with a nursery rhyme isn't too hard."

A MELANGE of steady clicks and incessant dings punctuates the air in a Grimsley typing class.

"Now they'll have to spell correctly, since typing can't conceal mistakes the way messy handwriting does."

Practical courses in home management and commercial skills give us preparatory experience for future careers

CAREFUL PREPARATIONS of the bride and her party are prerequisite for a Family Life mock wedding.

"For some this becomes reality all too soon."

WEAVING a rug is a meticulous but creative project in a multi-faceted GHS art course.

"It's a Christmas present for her mother . . . Christmas of 1985, that is."

DRAFTING CLASS inculcates precision and patience.

"One slip of the pencil and a whole week's work is gone!"

Hands that construct awaken dormant machines

STUDENTS in electronics lab devote their full attention to demanding experiments in current modulation.

"I hope he doesn't push the wrong button and blow us all up!"

CHEERFUL greetings from cafeteria cashiers Mr. Glenn and Mr. Ballance brighten the atmosphere for GHS diners.

"I'd hate to have that job — all that food going by and none of it for me!"

LUNCH supplies a brief vacation from classes for car-owners and their friends.

"Lunch is the time to eat, drink, and be merry, for next period you may have a test."

CLASSROOMS abandoned by the daily lunchtime exodus afford the best atmosphere for theme-grading.

"With all Miss Joyner's little creatures in here, I really feel at home!"

MRS. HUNDLEY, Grimsley's anonymous bookkeeper, sacrifices precious time to labor over the seventy-five accounts in the GHS ledger.

"Think of all the money that passes through her hands! But, like so many important jobs, this one often goes unnoticed."

"Always first place!"

CRITICAL JUDGES from the faculty inspect an entry in the Homecoming display contest.

"It's too bad we don't really have puppet strings for all the opposing teams!"

PAUSING to view the elaborate array of displays, onlookers discover a welcome diversion between classes.

"It sure was funny watching sleepy girls, still in rollers, set up their projects at 5:00 a.m."

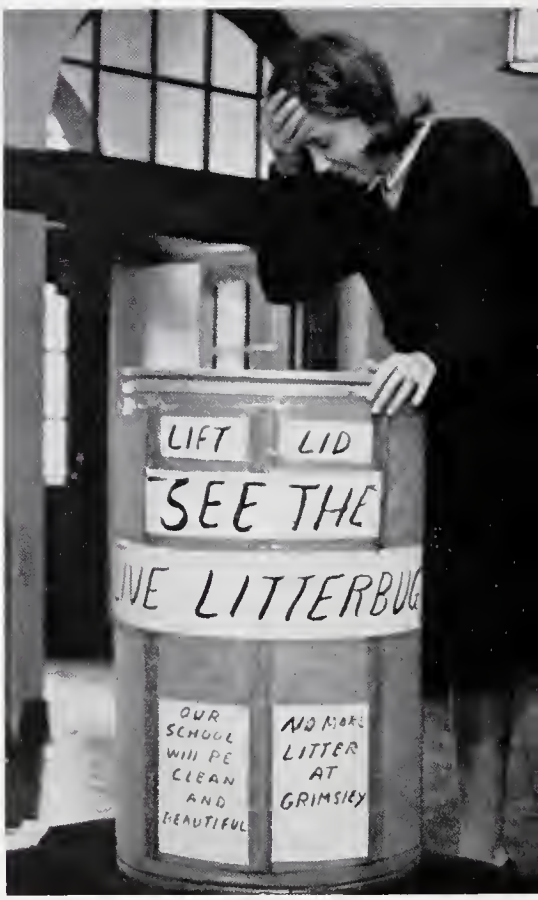
Energetic councils sponsor beneficial service projects and enjoyable student activities

DURING a clean-up campaign, School Beautiful exposes culprits with a concealed mirror that surprises litterbugs.

"The campaign was such a success that everybody threw paper down just so they could pick it up—for status!"

COUNCIL PRESIDENT Curtis Weaver presents grocery supplies, purchased with student donations at Thanksgiving, to the maids and janitors.

"People as fortunate as we welcome opportunities to share with others."

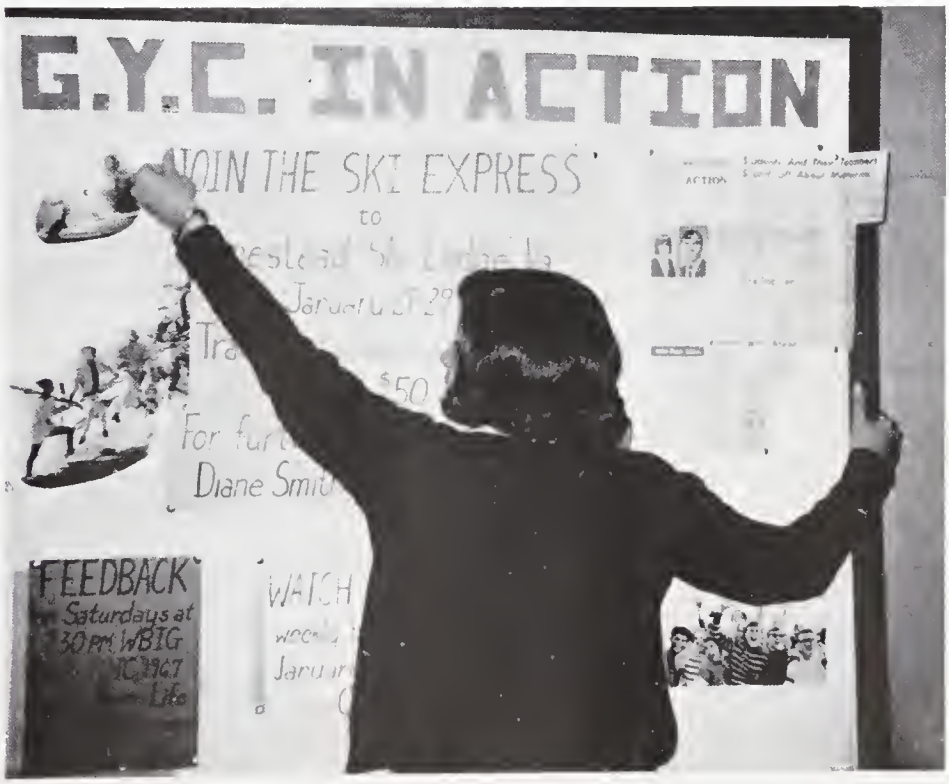


PONDERING over the fate of a defendant, members of the Greensboro Youth Council's Friends-of-the-Court program solicit aid from an adult advisor.

"The Youth Juries only recommend sentences for teen-age offenders, and usually their verdicts are harsher than the judge's."

UPCOMING EVENTS sponsored by the Greensboro Youth Council are heralded by a colorful bulletin board.

"Skiing trips, talent shows, powder-puff football, television programs—it sure does make for a crowded bulletin board!"



A building, a face, a registration system . . .

A FOREBODING STACK of proposed schedule sheets introduces Coach Jamieson to the initial steps of the IBM change-over.

"The computer was supposed to lighten the teachers' load, but that stack of papers looks like more work."

SHADOWY CRATERS outline the foundations for Grimsley's future two-story library building.

"There won't be any space left for the service clubs to plant gardens if the school keeps improving the campus."

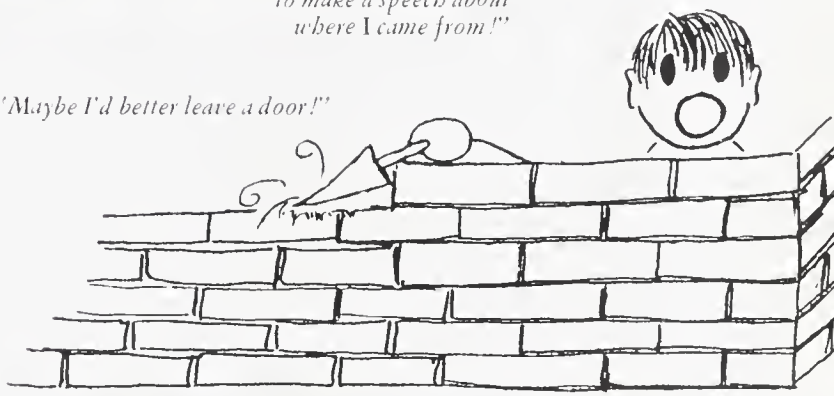
EVER-INCREASING number of students at GHS made expansion necessary for the bustling guidance center.

"Does an 'expanded' guidance center guarantee higher SAT scores for everyone?"

BEFORE APPEARING in an assembly program, foreign exchange students confer with interested classmates.

"I hope they don't ask me to make a speech about where I came from!"

"Maybe I'd better leave a door!"



FOLLOWING the trend of improvement for GHS, Exchangettes service club donated a sidewalk connecting the Science and Home Economics buildings.

"Maybe they'll start installing conveyer belts for sidewalks . . . then we could ride to class in style!"

School spirit is an elusive product of ebullient promoters who spur teams to victory

TEMPO-CONSCIOUS mascot leads Whirling Boots in a spry dance routine.

"Ready, girls? One, two, three, kick! One, two, three, turn!"

"To change our name can't change our fame . . ."

PREPARING for a decisive football game, varsity cheerleaders consult with the omnipresent Whirlibird.

"Now we know who comes up with those fowl plays that don't work."

TEAM-BOOSTERS radiate varying degrees of enthusiasm at an afternoon pep rally.

"You would never guess the loudest ones were 'sophisticated' Seniors."

ARMED with an ample supply of cheers and determination, football fans commute to an out-of-town game.

"Going to an away game takes a special kind of school spirit."

CONVERGING for a special after-school meeting, Grimsley mentors are briefed on the new IBM changes.

"After-school meetings and detailed directions don't stop with the students."

THE 3:30 BELL generates a deluge of humanity bound for after-school meetings, sports practice, or hours of homework.

"It reminds me of a glass-cased ant farm. We often rush around oblivious to what's outside our own little community."

"1 and 2 and 3 and . . ."

CONGENIAL new coaches hold an afternoon conference to plan game strategy.

"The new coaches also boosted school spirit — all the girls came to the games just to see them!"

Transient scholars relish the final bell,

INJURED LEGS of a Whirlie basketball player receive attention from an expert trainer.

"Just as many casualties happen in practice as in the real game."

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNERS undergo hours of calisthenics to improve endurance.

"I think it would help them if they sang 'Head, shoulders, knees and toes' while they exercise."

PATIENT COACH tries to capture the attention of restless J.V. baseball players.

"It's hard to concentrate on a coach's instructions when you've got spring fever. But then, it's hard to concentrate on anything in the spring."

TERRAIN-SCANNING presents an additional difficulty for drummers at marching band practice.

"Is that music under their feet, or is it a cheat sheet containing the marching pattern for halftime?"

WHIRLIE RECEIVER demonstrates agility as he attempts to snare his quarterback's pass.

"Will it be called interference if it clobbers the referee?"

"Go, Whirlies!"

CROSS-TOWN RIVALS give Whirlie cagers a tense moment.

"That Page boy seems to dance better than he plays basketball."

Whirlie athletes, strengthened by loyal support, unite to strive for a common goal

MEMBERS of the 1966 Homecoming Court and their escorts eagerly await revelation of the queen's identity.

"It was so cold that night the smiles must have been frozen on."

Pushing crowds, blaring bands,

all are memorable moments of GHS dances

ON PROM NIGHT nostalgic Seniors are silhouetted against the gymnasium, now transformed into the rhythmic realm of a "Carousel."

"Whew! I got my tie fixed, the flowers didn't wilt, and her parents didn't talk to me too long . . . I hope I don't step on her toes when we dance."

SNOWY WEATHER once again postponed the Midwinter's dance, and dejected Whirlies reluctantly accepted a new Grimsley tradition.

"I'm writing a book—
A Midsummer Night's Dream
or Midwinter's Rescheduled."

FLOWING GOWNS and black ties depict the formal mood of the Junior-Senior prom.

"The band's finally arrived. Uh, students . . . you may dance now."

THE SAXAPHONE'S clear wail, guitar's steely twang, and drum's steady tempo lure an open house crowd.

"Blaring music can be a celebration of victory or a comfort for loss."

In a mystical realm recreated by Merlin's potion, the 1966 May Day visits Arthur's enchanted Camelot

QUEEN OF THE MAY, revered by knights with upheld swords, enters the fantasy world of King Arthur's court.

"They asked me to carry her train, but I had already promised to be an escort."

DAYS OF CHIVALRY are relived as Queen Guinevere is crowned by Student Body President, Steve Cumbie.

"But it says in the program her name is Huttie Kent! Whoever she is, she's beautiful!"

"I always get wrapped up in my work!"

COURTSEYING MAIDENS and their bowing escorts perform a graceful minuet for the Queen of the May.

"Eight-to-five she can't get back up."

POURING a magic potion into his cauldron, Merlin conjures up a vision of the pageantry that was Camelot.

"I wonder if they'll try those new dance steps at the next open house."

Class Day and Graduation climax three fleeting years for reminiscent but ambitious Seniors

SENIORS, presenting well-earned gifts to their faculty advisors, reverse the satirical Class Day mood to a serious one.

"We laughed at the witty script, but now we suddenly realize these past events can be relived only in memories."

AN INQUISITIVE SPY uncovers aspects of the Grimsley community that reflect its excellence.

"He's almost as nosey as me!"

1966 CLASS DAY features a go-go rendition of the "Prologue" to Chaucer's Canterbury Tales.

"If Chaucer had seen this he would have 'gone-gone'."

CLASS DAY offers a contrasting tableau as Grimsley's kindergarten pupils gaze in awe at grey-robed seniors.

"I remember being their age and thinking high school was centuries away."

SOMBER STRAINS of "Pomp and Circumstance," tearful parents, and slow-stepping Seniors are all traditional facets of graduation.

"It would be so embarrassing to trip and fall at a time like this."

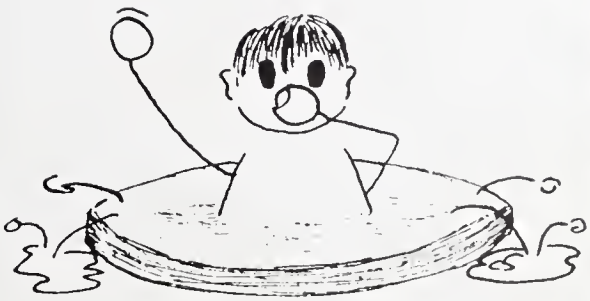
"Last one in's a rotten egg!"



A BEVY of tasseled graduates heeds conventional but beneficial advice from an eminent speaker.

"The capped heads all look the same, yet the private thoughts of each graduate are different."

"We participate because we need the special feeling of belonging that comes only from giving of ourselves."

Symphony band invited for Atlanta concert in April

Again very popular and well received in every concert, the GHS Symphony Band performed often during the year. A New Music Clinic was held on November 12 in which the band participated. The Fall Concert followed in mid-December; at the same time many band members prepared for All-State auditions in Asheboro. Thirty-seven players were selected to play in All-State the weekend of February 4. As usual, several GHS players earned first chairs in their sections.

The second concert was given in February, in conjunction with the Concert Band, as were the remaining two concerts on March 16 and April 20. The weekend of April 28 was perhaps the high spot of the year for the Symphony Band. They took a trip to Atlanta, Georgia, to perform for a regional bandmasters' convention.

add zest to GHS life

At home basketball games, the Pep Band supplied music for cheers and school songs. These boys, newly-clad in striped jackets, volunteered to add zest to Whirlie Spirit.

The Marching Band was no disappointment either. The half-time audience, with hoarse throats and tired bodies, rallied with renewed strength to the Band's favorite Whirlie victory tunes. The Concert Band, directed by Mr. Rooker, overflowed with spirit and exuberance.

Joint Orchestra-Choir Concert provides meaningful

Recognized nationally as a superior high school orchestra, the Grimsley group was invited to play five very difficult numbers at the dedication of a new music building at the University of Cincinnati School of Music. The students enjoyed the trip, the concert, and sight-seeing in a city where few had ever visited.

At home the year was busy too. In December the Orchestra performed a concert with the Choir at which a dance group was featured. In January many of these musicians played in the All-State Orchestra at Greenville, North Carolina. Small groups played for several graduation events, and the ever-popular Singing Strings performed at many civic functions all year.

captivated crowds with harmonious, flowing lyrics

Under the capable leadership of Miss Meredith and Mr. Hill, the Grimsley Choir began its concert series on November 28 with a PTSA performance. The Choir-Orchestra Christmas Concert on December 7 presented a meaningful introduction to the Advent season. The entire choral department performed its Winter Concert in February. The final concert, with the band, was given in May, completing a successful year of concertizing.

This year a new singing group called the Grimsley Singers was created, and sixteen of the most talented choir members were selected for it. The group sang for civic functions as well as for the student body in assemblies, and greatly enhanced the already fine reputation of our choir.

A tradition featuring talented and enthusiastic students was the ever-charming group, The Queen's Men. Appearing at assemblies, service club luncheons, May Day, and the annual Civinette Banquet, they never failed to intrigue audiences with their harmony and wit.

The group is directed by Miss Jeanne Meredith.

for entertaining the student body and civic groups

GHS glee clubs, singing at various assembly programs and in concerts with the choir, performed with verve and obvious enjoyment. In the Thanksgiving Day assembly program, the boys sang the Navy Hymn and the exciting and vigorous Russian National Anthem. In a Valentine Day assembly the advanced chorus sang two numbers — "I'm Going Away" and "Ave Maria." On February 22, joined by the beginning girls' chorus, who sang "My Lover Is a Fisherman," the three glee clubs and the choir presented an evening concert. In April the advanced glee club sang in the State Contest for a high rating. A special inspiration to each member of the glee clubs was the possibility of a future position in the choir. To this end they sang and worked arduously all year.

To further the knowledge of Spanish language and civilization is the purpose of the Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica. At monthly meetings the qualified students enriched their classroom study with various projects. In the fall new members were initiated in a candlelight ceremony presented entirely in Spanish.

In February Spanish Club members sold potato chips to raise money. At the Navidad party at Christmas, the members enjoyed Spanish food, games, and a pinata prepared by an active Society committee. In May the Society awarded a $25 savings bond to the student with the highest average in Spanish.

Several members of GHS's Junior Classical League represented the school at the National JCL Convention in Bowling Green, Kentucky, last summer and returned to the local organization with many ideas. The experiences of these members provided an entertaining program for an autumn club meeting. Later programs included the candlelight induction ceremony for new members, a Roman Saturnalia party at Christmas, and an entertaining skit by JCL Sophomores.

Eager students investigate complex scientific world

Science Club held three dinner meetings this year, one being a joint venture with the Medical Club. At these and other meetings, varied projects and field trips were planned. The club visited a local optical company and heard a speaker discuss the County Health Program. Two meetings were conducted in which the Radar Control Unit at Friendship Airport was explored. At the first one, a member of the airport explained the mechanics of the Unit. The Science Club toured the Radar Unit at the next meeting.

Meetings were held twice a month and often the Science and Medical clubs worked together in many areas. Both clubs planned a joint picnic in the spring. Also in the spring, inquiring members conducted a nature hike for the purpose of collecting specimens. Department head Mrs. Everhart aided the club in many ways as their unofficial advisor. Because of these varied programs, the students became better informed about scientific affairs of today.

Medical Club's trips help members explore careers

This year Medical Club participated in a potpourri of programs including lectures on heredity, nursing, and psychology. Field trips were made to the Duke University Hospital and to Cone Hospital for the acquisition of practical medical knowledge.

1966-1967 was a year of change for the Medical Club. Under the leadership of President Stang and Advisor Everhart, the club adopted a constitution which stressed the importance of broadening the interested students' awareness of the medical profession.

Eager and capable FTAers relieve weary teachers

FTA members, a welcome sight to any weary instructor at the end of a week, pursued their main project of aiding teachers. Besides assisting with various jobs of typing, filing, and grading papers, the FTA members tutored in several elementary schools.

With Advisors Causey and Mitchell, FTA sponsored afternoon meetings where they planned their annual tea in April for the teachers and the members' mothers. An installation ceremony for new officers was planned for the banquet at the year's end.

To further explore future ambitions, the Future Teachers of America met jointly with other high school clubs and college-sponsored organizations, such as the Student National Educators Association. On October 29 at Catawba College, FTA members presented a skit at the State Convention where Dr. Amos Abrams spoke. In the spring, the aspiring teachers applied for scholarships which were then presented at the banquet held in the home economics building.

History Honor Society members were selected by a council of electors on the basis of academic standing in history courses. Whether listening attentively to Mr. Fredrickson's accounts of Israel and Africa or thoughtfully watching colorful films, members enriched their knowledge of world history. Members lectured on their respective theological views, and through these discussions an intent audience gained insight to religion and its consequent effects on history. Under the direction of Advisor Hutton, meetings were held on alternate Thursdays of each month. The club gave the library a subscription to the weekday edition of the New York Times and sponsored an editorial cartoonist at an assembly.

"I now challenge you, member of Torchlight, to go forth and seek out those deemed worthy of membership in Torchlight National Honor Society." With these words the Honor Society President sent the members into a hushed audience, where a chosen few were surprised with a gentle tap and a glowing candle. The soft, melodious strains of "Ave Maria" and the white-robed candle-bearers have become traditional components of the biannual ceremonies at Grimsley.

Once again Torchlight sponsored a tutoring service for students who needed academic assistance. Using profits from the annual talent show, the Honor Society also provided a scholarship for a deserving Senior. Elected delegates spent three days at state convention in Nag's Head.

members found that they could be helpful by teaching amateur drama groups at junior highs about make-up and simple stage directions.

Three one-act plays were presented on February 24 for preliminary competition. Award-winning playmasters hoped to reach the District and State theatrical finals. The group's dramatizations of "Aria di Capo," "Sunday Cost Five Pesos," and "Here We Are" were entered in the District Drama Festival at Catawba College. There "Aria di Capo" received an Excellent rating, while "Here We Are" was judged Distinguished. This rating entitled the latter play to be given in the State Festival. There players Matt Gibson and Cheryl Jones received Distinguished Acting awards.

An enthusiastic Whirligig staff, after making initial plans for this yearbook in the spring of 1966, returned in the fall to work with Advisor Powell and Editor Breger, hoping to equal the excellence of last year's seventeenth All-American Whirligig.

Compiling statistics occupied the time of Senior Editors Steger and Wayman, while Junior Editors Israel and Schloss and Sophomore Editors Kay and S. O'Cain busied themselves with identifications. Diane Barth uncovered eccentricities of Grimsley's faculty, whereas Business Manager Cummings and her assistant Benbow struggled with financial problems. Literary Editor K. Rubin spurred her writers Hoyman, McDaid, Ruffing, and Stahl to strive for creativity. Pictures planned by Photography Editor C. O'Cain were complemented by Audrey Lavine's lively sketches. Glenn Morris tackled the Sports Section. Layout Editor Ponder and her assistant Richey were consultants for all sections.

As the deadline approached, a flurry of last-minute corrections and additions began to the tune of busy typewriters and desperate demands. Refreshing minutes of levity brought much needed relief to such crises, as each member of the staff endeavored to capture and record every moment of the Grimsley whirl.

Every week Grimsley's self-supporting newspaper covered in its four pages almost every area of GHS life. Copies of High Life, distributed to third period classes each Monday, gave readers not only the newest facts but also what was topical and often controversial in student opinions.

Many turned first to "Rosey's Views" by Lynn Rose, expecting to find a laugh or a quotable pun. Rick Brewer covered GHS sports, always with a Terry McMahon or Bruce Hiatt photo to make his story more graphic. Feature Editors Red Ward and Marty Palmer, taking their job seriously, introduced a variety of unusual features this year. Editor Ronnie Gallimore and News Editors Jean Broadway and Marilyle Upchurch were alert to everything that was happening here and to what readers liked in their paper. John Foust's cartoons sometimes made a point more forcefully than a two-column essay would have done. But it was Franklin Stewart and his salesmen whose advertising space made some of those High Life "extras" financially possible.

Student Council sponsors bridge project in Bolivia

"If they can't get elevators, escalators will do!"

Student Council's year was filled with many projects, beginning with the Sophomore elections and a welcoming party for transfer students. The Council initiated two new projects: sending birthday cards to GHS students and posting answers to student suggestions on the bulletin board. Through Project Bolivia, the Council collected over $900 to construct a bridge in Bolivia.

To promote a closer relationship with the student body, the Student Council continued its visitation plan for students to observe the Council in action after school.

For Thanksgiving the Student Council gave each maid and janitor a holiday dinner; at Christmas it aided a needy family. Honor Code Day reminded everyone of their duties as citizens of this school and the community. Each grading period the Council awarded citizenship pins to six students and presented scholarship plaques to the homeroom in each class with the highest academic average. The long-awaited Midwinters Dance on March 17 was the highlight of Council's year. To climax their activities, they helped in planning the Junior-Senior Prom.

Diversity was the key word for GHS's industrious Youth Recreation Council. Various projects boosted school spirit, aided underprivileged children, and made this year a social success. For the third year, YRC sponsored the Homecoming Display Contest and awarded a trophy for the winning entry.

During Christmas, YRC members prepared a party for needy children and built an attractive float for Greensboro's Christmas Parade. A darkened girls' gym, a blaring combo, and a pushing but happy crowd were typical elements of YRC's popular open houses. The success of these worthwhile projects can easily be traced to the spirited attitudes of the members.

Greensboro Youth Council served the community with sundry projects: a teenage page in the newspaper, the radio program "Feedback," the television show "Percolator," and a Youth Jury. GYC sponsored two teenage shows at the Barn Theater, Powder Puff football games, and its annual talent show.

GHS student assistants successfully aided the faculty in making the machinery of school life run smoothly and efficiently.

Clinic assistants called absentees' parents, recorded absences for the computer, and summoned their peers from class with "green slips." Distributors of announcements to the teachers and wardens of the "lost and found" department, main office assistants proved to be essential aids to Mr. Routh and Mrs. Coltrane. Visitors to GHS were greeted in the hallway by volunteer monitors.

School store workers daily vended the pens, pencils, and papers that are the tools of a student's trade. They also supplied stamps and mailed letters for those who requested the service. Guidance assistants cheerfully arranged students' appointments and college bulletins. Capable book room assistants prepared, counted, and issued a myriad of textbooks. Backbone of all productions, the vital stage crew assistants silently performed backstage jobs.

Bus drivers' responsibility: transportation of pupils

MR. GLENN clarifies for drivers the new forms to be filled out for each bus trip.

Twenty-five faithful Grimsley students spent three hours each day transporting school children to nine different schools. Trained by the State Highway Patrol and insured by the Board of Education, the bus drivers earned a salary of fifty dollars per month. Then smacking bubble gum, flying rubber bands, and clamoring children became familiar parts of the bus drivers' daily life.

The bus drivers attended classes regularly but forfeited a seventh period study hall. Although a Supreme Court ruling almost took away their jobs, they continued to transport 2,500 pupils daily. Compared to others in their position, Grimsley bus drivers achieved a low accident rate. Their fine standing was attributed to the co-operation of all the drivers, led by President Green and Vice President Hall.

OFFICERS of the GHS Bus Drivers are President Green and Rick Hall.

essential clerical training

To help bridge the gap between school and business is the main purpose of GHS' Co-Operative Office Training Program. Academic and clerical classes, such as English, history, and typing, which were held in the morning, enabled participants to broaden their interests and working abilities. As salaried employees, COT'ers were required to pass a federal employment test to acquire jobs.

COT members visited many local industries. A point of interest was the municipal building where the school report cards were processed by the IBM computer. In class with Co-ordinator McEntire, the students related banking, economics, and income tax to their present working conditions.

In co-ordination with other school-work programs throughout the city high schools, an encompassing social dinner was planned for spring. Students invited their employers to the traditional Bosses' Banquet.

"Earn and learn" was the motto guiding Grimsley DE students who held jobs in wholesale, retail, and service areas. In addition, they made several field trips to local industries, sponsored an officers' training workshop and an open house for parents, conducted a survey of all GHS students who held part-time jobs, and participated in a national survey. They traveled to Asheville late in March to the state convention, then made plans to send a delegate to the national convention.

The Sears foundation underwrites this club, which Mrs. Hadden has advised for twenty years. The Grimsley chapter continues to keep a perfect score in winning its superior national rating. In district competition in February, Weddie Huffman won second place in Sales Demonstration; and Barry Hardeman was chosen Student of the Year for the entire district.

Parents shared the great interest in the DE program, often joining the club in social events and field trips.

School Beautiful, with approximately 150 members, proved to be a most valuable organization at Grimsley. Advised by Miss Lynne Hundley, the group maintained an attractive school area while participating in "Anti-Litterbug Week" and "City Beautiful Week."

Propelled by the lofty goal—to awaken student pride and interest in the campus—School Beautiful promoted student enthusiasm and participation. Mrs. Jay R. Pringle, the Garden Club representative, was an invaluable aid to the three co-chairmen.

Service clubs co-ordinate activities through council

This year Grimsley's thirteen Service Clubs sponsored a wide variety of successful projects, ranging from busy Saturday workdays and charity drives to original and spirited Homecoming displays and carnival booths. Much of the over-all effectiveness and co-operation of the clubs can be attributed to the active Interclub Council.

The Council, composed of club presidents, served as a meeting area where mutual problems, projects, and imaginative ideas converged for the good of all clubs. The bimonthly meetings in Room 100 were supervised by Mr. Glenn and led by President Jim Davis. The Council was dedicated to service to the community as well as to the school.

Y-Teens employ ingenuity, imagination in projects

COOKIES for servicemen in Vietnam are the tasty result of this Y-Teen meeting in the YWCA kitchen.

Y-Teens, sponsored by the YWCA, participated in the whirl of activities that occupied GHS service clubs. In addition to supporting fund drives, the girls cleaned the tennis courts. The Y-Teens, along with Advisors Tamblyn and Austin, planned and managed a booth for the Teenage Carnival.

Bimonthly meetings were held at the Hot Shoppes Resturant and also at the YWCA. During the holidays Y-Teens decorated the YWCA, sang Christmas carols at Jefferson Square, sent cookies to soldiers in Vietnam, and provided food and clothing for needy families. One outstanding club member was chosen to be sent to Wyoming for the National "Y" Conference.

Annual sale of license plates builds Hi-Y treasury

PARTICIPANTS in their club's sale of "Go Whirlies" tags are Austin, Wayant, Lambert, Huckabee, Krulish, Darden, Statham, Cranford, McArthur, Reid, Dilger, Lance, Hicks, Jorgensen, Woods.

The Hi-Y Philomathians began this year's variety of activities with a hayride held jointly with the Y-Teens. Later, the boys participated in fund drives, such as the YMCA World Service Fund Drive, and they gave a Christmas party to underprivileged children. The boys also conducted the traditional sale of "Go Whirlie" license plates.

Hi-Y's final project was the sponsorship of their booth at the Teen-Age Carnival. President Robert Seymour passed on tips to the local chapter that he learned at the International YMCA Plenary Meeting he attended. Advised by Julius Hayworth, Grimsley's oldest service club lived up to its name "lovers of learning."

READY TO REPAIR the club sundial are Hutchinson, G. Fuller, Stewart, Holland, Walters, Underwood, Price, Edwards. Hi-Y is sponsored by YMCA.

OFFICERS displaying their Hi-Y banner are President Seymour, Wilson, Moose, Sappenfield, Rhudy, and J. Fuller.

Blue-and-white streamers waving from aerials in the GHS parking lot and the distribution of shakers again symbolized the school spirit of Grimsley's Charioteers.

OFFICERS of Charioteers— Front row: Barth, President Duncan, Marshall, and Stedman. Second row: Ruffing, Carlton, and Ferguson.

In addition to these projects, the girls displayed ingenuity and enthusiasm by working with underprivileged children one Saturday a month and by collecting for local charities. Adding furnishings to two teachers' lounges and organizing the annual fashion show highlighted their other activities.

Club advisor is Mr. Stewart Colson, a 1954 Grimsley graduate.

The sponsorship of their third exchange student occupied the Interact members this year. Ken Birkbeck, a senior from Australia, became a familiar sight to GHS students. Enchanting the school with his picturesque slides and an irresistible English accent, he also proved his unbeatable school spirit by winning the first Whirlie Booster-of-the-Week award. To further establish world-wide bonds, the boys presented an American flag to a Brazilian school.

On Tuesdays Interact alternated meetings between school and the Mayfair Cafeteria. Along with Page and Smith high schools, Grimsley's Interact Club became co-hosts for the District 169 Interact Convention held at the O. Henry Hotel. As a final project, the club constructed a booth at Greensboro's Teenage Carnival.

"She had some sales-pitch!"

The benefits from the successful fall sale of Claxton fruitcake enabled the Junior Civinettes to adopt a Japanese student, Chiyo Masaki. As an agent in promoting international good will, Chiyo played the role well.

The girls gave many Saturdays to charity drives, volunteered to help underprivileged children, and sang at the Masonic home during Thanksgiving. In addition, Civinettes competed against other Civinette Clubs at the 1967 District Convention in Durham.

CIVINETTES in line at a cafeteria for the club's regular dinner meeting are Thompson, Lineberry, Early, Frye, Robinson, Patterson, McDaid, and Summers.

Once again Sophomores and transfer students became acquainted with Grimsley when the Junior Civitans distributed their annual handbook. For another traditional project, the boys' club donated support for their Chinese foster child, Lo Lai Sang. Promoting good citizenship, the Civitan Club enthusiastically worked for various community fund drives. The members attended several religious services during the year with the Civinettes, and caroled with the girls' club during the Christmas holidays.

As their main club project the Junior Exchangettes continued the Teachers' Fund, a supply of supplementary materials for teachers. The club members sold "Go Whirlies" buttons, constructed a project in the Teenage Carnival, and built a Homecoming display which merited a first place award from the YRC. In addition, the girls collected for many local charity drives.

At their bi-monthly dinner meetings, the Exchangettes were advised on projects and problems by Mrs. Jane Hauser and Senior Exchangette Mrs. A. W. McNairy.

Jr. Exchange Club renovates benches in stadium

Inspired by active President Rusty Culbreth, the Junior Exchange Club was proud of its school and community activities. Beginning in September, the energetic boys undertook the school projects of rebuilding the football players' benches and selling megaphones with the traditional "Go Whirlies" slogan on them.

For a community service, the Exchange Club collected money for various funds. As money-making projects, they sold Christmas trees and doughnuts. The boys met on Wednesdays at Libby Hill's under the supervision of Mr. Snider. The Exchange Club held joint meetings, combo parties, and hay rides with the Junior Exchangettes.

Junior Jaycettes were a welcome sight to Sophomores on registration day. Supervising the upperclassmen "buddies," they ended the first day of school with refreshments and an informal dance.

The club undertook service projects by participating in fund drives. Balloons atop the victory flag pole and waxed desks boasted Jaycette spirit. Members met bimonthly on Wednesday nights for dinner or at a member's home. In the spring, they assisted the Greensboro Jaycees with the GGO.

Promoting school spirit was the objective of GHS's Junior Jaycee Club. The presence of the Whirlibird at all games, the "Name-the-Whirlibird" contest, and the "Whirlie-of-the-Week" award kept the Jaycees' school spirit booming. A tangible reminder of their spirit was their year-old brick terrace.

For this year's school service, Jaycees donated podiums to English and history classes and erected a Nativity scene on the front lawn at Christmas. In accordance with club tradition, the Junior Jaycee Scholarship and the Roger Hobbs Memorial Trophy were presented on Awards Day to worthy students.

Athletic O. Henry Juniors win intraclub volleyball

Continuing past traditions, the O. Henry Juniors worked with mentally-retarded children, School Beautiful, a Homecoming display, and fund drives. Advised by Mrs. Garland Murray and Mrs. Harry D. Kellett, OHJ planned a new project—the sale of GHS pins.

Accustomed to "firsts," OHJ claimed, for the second consecutive year, first prize in both individual and club competition in the White Cane Drive. The club also won the interclub volleyball title for the third year in a row.

Stadium swept clean by the industrious Key Club

KEY CLUB DIRECTORIES are prepared for distribution by President T. Long, Clark, Blackwood, Gingher, Easterling, Labell, and Seaver, all of whom are officers except Gingher and Labell.

SWEEPING the stadium after each game is the Key Club's money-raising project.

The Key Club continued a Grimsley tradition this year with the publication of the annual student directory in early December. Instead of sleeping late on autumn Saturdays, these boys performed a vital service to the school by sweeping the stadium of football debris on "the morning after."

As school spirit promoters, the boys distributed "Go Whirlies" footballs at the Page game, made 250 pairs of student clappers, and bought the Pep Band uniforms. Advised by Mr. Jay Arena and Mr. Harold Odenwald, the Key Club sponsored a successful hayride and a spring party at Tanglewood.

Sub-Juniors realize hopes of many through service

OFFICERS of Sub-Juniors are Odenwald, President Gabriels, Stevenson, and Cates.

Grimsley's Sub-Junior Woman's Club furnished the Home Economics Conference Room as their main project. The girls collected for fund drives, boosted school spirit by purchasing blue and white shakers for home football games, and for Christmas sent Vietnam soldiers homemade "ditty bags" containing games, books, and other deeply appreciated gifts.

Dinner meetings held at Greensboro Woman's Club offered a variety of enjoyable and educational programs. Members found social events—such as a slumber party for the induction of new members, a club-sponsored hayride, and a dance—a refreshing change. All this added up to another successful and worthwhile year for the Sub-Juniors.

Seniorettes cure Whirlies' sweet tooth with candy

Grimsley Seniorettes manifested their school spirit by participating in school work days and by constructing a Homecoming display. Their city-wide activities included a booth at the Teenage Carnival, work with children at Council House Nursery, and collection for various funds throughout the school year.

Advised by Mrs. Long of the Woman's Club and by Mrs. Alexander, the Seniorettes held one dinner meeting and one meeting at a member's home each month. The girls gave a Halloween party to underprivileged children at Smith Homes. They also continued their past project of landscaping the girls' gym.

Cheerleaders add zest and zip to pride and spirit

Whether bathed in the warm glow of gymnasium lights or shivering in brisk autumn weather, our cheerleaders endeared themselves to exuberant fans with hearty pleas for a Whirlie victory. The unification of the student body under a colossal atmosphere of school pride and sportsmanship was quickly achieved by these ingenious acrobats. Head Cheerleader Connie Giles and her able assistant Sally English developed a series of exercises to keep in shape. New cheers were coupled with traditional ones, and both were bolstered with stupendous response to let opponents know "We couldn't be prouder of the spirit and ability of GHS students and teams!"

Whirling Boots develop respect through precision

Halftime crowds were entertained this year by the precision choreography of GHS's "Whirling Boots." This queue of young ladies provided a refreshing pause from the helter-skelter action of basketball or the rough and tumble combat of the gridiron.

Through accurate execution of highly imaginative routines and through costumes, these gymnasts depicted the seashore, Oklahoma! and lively hometown celebrations. Such scenes made the bleakest of nights enjoyable.

Much of the success of this group was due to its advisor and instructor, Eloise Glass. Mrs. Glass proved to be patient and helpful to the young group, now in its second year. Assistant choreographers Michele Hoyman and Nancy Ford led the group in Mrs. Glass's absence.

amusing skits, novel "Spirit Week," and pep rallies

GHS's Pep Board, with a membership of 132 members, enthusiastically began its program under the energetic leadership of Chairman Coleman. Members kept busy placing posters throughout the school, chartering buses for out-of-town games, and distributing shakers at home games.

In addition, the Board offered original and amusing skits at assemblies to encourage team support. At each assembly, a "Whirlie Booster-of-the-Week" award was presented to a student who displayed outstanding spirit and sportsmanship.

The Pep Board's major project was the new Spirit Week, including an assembly and "Cork-em" and "Sock-em" days, climaxed by the Page football game.

Girls' Athletic Association provides energy outlet

The Girls' Athletic Association again served as an outlet for GHS's girl athletes in sports such as speedball, volleyball, track, basketball, and softball. To raise money, the girls sold GHS sweatshirts. As active supporters of school and civic events, they entered a Homecoming Display and built a booth at the Teenage Carnival. The girls also refereed at various "play days."

Monogramers pursue recognition and service goals

The 1966-1967 Monogram Club, under the capable leadership of President Dan Linker, sought to achieve deserved recognition as a school affiliated function. The club undertook minor service projects, although not specified as a service club.

The sale of mums and the distribution of programs at football games initiated a full year for the club. Donations to a scholarship fund organized by the FCA and the sale of "Whirlie G" T-shirts completed President Linker's project agenda for this school year.

The 1966 Whirlies, responding to the leadership of the unanimous all-conference selection Mike Hipps, passed six opponents to their football oblivion. Based on Hipps' aerial finesse and complemented by swift running backs, the Whirlies presented a formidable offense. The success of the Whirlie attack was due also to the outstanding line play of an underrated forward wall.

The principal receivers of quarterback Hipps' passes were ends Jerry Hornig and Dean Brewer and halfbacks Jim Mitchell and Rusty Culbreth. Fine running by John Perry, Glenn Morris, Rusty Culbreth, and Jim Mitchell gave a balance of power when the air routes were fortified.

Defense, however, proved to be a foible in the Whirlie championship game plans. The Blue and White could score with ease, but all too often this was of a reciprocal quality. As a result, the Whirlies narrowly missed a chance for post-season play.

The Whirlies opened the season against a big Raleigh Broughton team. The size of the Capitals was overwhelming and the Whirlies fell to a 16-7 defeat.

Pinpoint passing of Hipps paces a dazzling, colorful 1966 Whirlie offense

A fourth quarter scoring spell pulled the game out of the fire the next week at Asheboro, as the Whirlies took home a 12-7 victory. In the final two weeks the Whirlies rolled to easy victories over Asheville and East Forsyth.

A touchdown pass in the remaining 37 seconds of the game was the Whirlies' salvation as they battled a tenacious Burlington team to a hard-fought tie.

In a three minute scoring spell, which witnessed five rapidly scored touchdowns and left spectators goggle-eyed, the Whirlies subdued the rival Page Pirates. The near record-breaking scoring spree sent Page home at the expense of a 27-6 defeat.

The next week, North Forsyth fell under a Homecoming barrage. High Point became the sixth and final victim at the Bison Homecoming.

Favored, but injury laden, the Whirlies absorbed an overwhelming upset victory by the Smith Eagles. The score, 48-32, was indicative of the sparkling offensive show exhibited by both teams.

The season ended with a last-second touchdown by Reynolds. Victory and a chance for a playoff berth barely escaped.

Whirlie cagers capture second prize in tournament

1966 basketball opponents of GHS squared off in battles with a sharp-shooting, elongated quintet. The lanky Whirlies, averaging about 76 inches in height, out-fought enemy cagers for a 15-8 win-loss record.

Despite the invaluable height, the Whirlies were haunted with the absence of a playmaker. Ball handling errors determined the outcome of several contests. Dominated by Seniors, the starting line-up consisted of Joe Howard and Mike Hipps—a back court duo. They were joined by Tim Browder, Bruce Piephoff and Mike Scott in the fore court. Top reserves were Robbie Wilson, Keith Broome and Ronnie Bolton. Frequent action seen by this trio during the year was due to a constant shifting of the starting line-up.

On December second, Whirlie hoopsters opened a long, belligerent campaign that was to end in the finals of the Central-4A Conference Tournament on February 25. Whirlie enthusiasts did their share of traveling, as the first eight games were away. Dual victories over Asheville highlighted the first month of warfare. The Whirlies succeeded in compiling a 4-4 record by the end of the Christmas holidays. Cold January winds blew in a blizzard of Whirlie victories. An initial home court win over Page began a six-game victory spree that ended with a second loss to Burlington. The Whirlies finished regular season play with 3 victories, then lost to Reynolds and Smith. Revenge was sweet, however. In the Conference Tournament, Whirlies mauled both North Forsyth and Smith before the tall Whirlie cagers captured second prize in the tournament.

Fans of Junior Varsity Basketball witnessed a fast-moving, hot-shooting team. In bidding for their second straight Conference Championship, the young Whirlies ran into one early obstacle—a zone press. The team, however, recorded a 16-7 record.

The starting line-up this year was paced by Steve Warner and Dickie Gordon. Playmakers Grundy McCall and Randy McMasters set up and ran the offense. The team, headed by Coach Canady in his first year on the Grimsley staff, showed support potential.

Three seniors and two juniors contributed vital points enabling the Grimsley wrestlers to secure their second State mat crown. The Whirlies keynoted a successful year with Sectional and, as mentioned, State grappling victories.

Big men for the blue and white fighters were Jim Coggins and Curtis Weaver. Both climaxed an undefeated regular season with their second straight state championships. Coggins conquered in the 197 pound class and Weaver in the 133 pound class. Monty Recoulley, in his first year, reached the state finals only to lose in an overtime decision. These boys received fine support by anxious teammates Jim Powell, Vic Cochran and Alvin Chandler, who will be looked to as the nucleus of next year's team. The team was drilled by Coaches Umberger and Robison — both in their first year as head mentors.

For the third straight year Grimsley continued its monopoly of high school swimming. Behind the capable leadership of Coach Bob Sawyer, the Grimsley team devoured high school competition and battled college foes.

The Whirlies were led by three Seniors. Bill Dewey, Alan Bernard, and Drew Finn showed little of themselevs to their competitors—other than the back of their swimsuits. Dewey triumphed in the 200-meter individual medley and the 100-meter backstroke. Finn dominated the 50- and 100-meter freestyle, while Bernard manhandled all opponents in the 300- and 400-meter freestyle. Sophomore Jim Walters captured state laurels in his first year as a Whirlie swimmer.

Young harriers practice hard and run commendably

Grimsley's harriers, continuing tradition, finished the season seventh in the state and third in the conference, thus foreshadowing Whirlie threats in future competition. Senior Curtis Weaver paced the team, after battling the competition of Sam Wood and Jack Mason.

Participants in cross country running regularly spent grueling hours in hefty workouts and simulated competition. Frequent trips to Page and Hamilton Lakes and "relaxing" eight mile runs from the airport contributed to a well-rounded program—all running—for team members.

OFF SEASON team members condition themselves with a weight program (above). Practice begins with a two-mile warm-up jog.

Balance, dependability yield big Whirlie track wins

The Whirlie track team, sparked by upperclassmen, captured the City-County Championship and placed third in the Conference meet. Both meets were held early in May of 1966. This City-County Meet, involving all schools in the Guilford County area, came as a sequel to four previous Whirlie triumphs.

The City-County Track Meet was the first meet of its kind in the Greensboro area. The Whirlies survived a jack-rabbit-like comeback by William Penn of High Point to emerge victorious—112 to 95.

Consistency proved the big factor in the Whirlie wins. Repeatedly, Seniors Jack Whitley, John Bradley, and Tom Roos came through with vital points. Loren Singletary, a hurdler and sprinter, paced the big point-makers with two, sometimes three, first places. Juniors Rusty Culbreth, Ronnie Bolton, and Dan Linker provided the balance and depth necessary for several close victories.

The speedy Bulldogs of Burlington and the fleet Demons of Reynolds dominated the Conference meet. Grimsley's thinclads put up a valiant effort but placed a distant third.

AT THE MARK! Runners Wilkins and Huber poise in track's famed four-point crouch.

Polish of Senior golfers provides power and punch

1966 WHIRLIE GOLFERS are Pait, Atkins, Inman, Blackwood, Striegel, Grubbs, Wicker, Pope.

The '66 Whirlies failed to retain the central 4-A championship—a trophy which has made Grimsley its home for the past three years. This was due to the Whirlies' inability to play while submerged, for the conference championship was played in a deluge, and the GHS linksmen came in, a rain-hampered fifth.

They rallied, however, for the sectionals and took a heart-breaking one-stroke loss to Reidsville.

Distance master of the team last year was Vance Wicker, who rifled the ball for astonishing yardage all year. Jim Blackwood carried consistency and accuracy with him at all matches and emerged as the team "dead-eye."

Dominated by Seniors, the Whirlies lost heavily to graduation, but the returning lettermen increased the prospect of a fine 1967 season.

GENE SAIN reaches for a serve in one of many practice matches.

Led by returning letterman Gene Sain, Stan West, and Joe and Gene Fuller, the Whirlie tennis team proved strong opposition to all adversaries. Sain, anticipated as one of the most prominent players in the Conference, lived up to predictions. Coach Bondanella looked optimistically toward the new season as a chance to better the team's 1966 record.

Superb pitching and efficient fielding overcome foes

The '66 Whirlies, challenged by several close games, almost transformed their heart-breaking loses into last-inning victories. Inexperience and ineligibility crippled the team later in the year, resulting in the loss of several players. The team finished the season with an impartial 7-7 record.

The outstanding fielding of speedy Jim Mitchell and lanky Keith Broome contributed to the decisive wins over Burlington and Reynolds. Beaver Peer, Bob Lucas, Mike Hipps, and Ted Lambeth were the standouts. Robbie Wilson, Steve Hathcock, and Bob Lucas were the hurling crew.

Tamblyn. The latter advised the Whirling Boots as well as intramurals.

These coaches instructed and helped Grimsley's Varsity volleyball, speedball, and basketball teams. In the fall, the volleyball team represented GHS well at the Page Playday, while in the spring the track and field teams also showed well at the Track and Field Day held at Smith. The High Point Playday and the UNC-G Relay Day offered a variety of sports in which our versatile female athletes competed.

The usual agenda of sports—volleyball, speedball, basketball, tennis, track, and softball—was augmented by the following new activities: rope-jumping, tumbling, folk-dancing, archery, and badminton. Encouraged by additional space in the girls' gym and stimulated by the diversity of the sports, the girls immersed themselves wholeheartedly in the exuberating athletic program.

ALL-NEW girls' phys ed staff is comprised of Tamblyn, Addison, and Haley.

Intramurals provided afternoon enjoyment for interested athletes in volleyball and basketball. A singles tennis tournament and a non-competitive gymnastics club, meeting three times a week, were also initiated.

PEOPLE

PTSA Board contributes to vital Grimsley projects

PTSA OFFICERS are Treasurer Howard J. Sharp, Secretary Mrs. J. D. Long, Vice President Mrs. A. S. Lineberry, President Jack Nantz.

The Grimsley Parent-Teacher Association and its board contribute much to the functioning of our school. It assists the faculty and students in the accomplishment of various projects and provides a source of contact between parents and school.

Each year the PTSA budget allots funds for scholarships for deserving students and contributions to the GHS library. The organization also sends delegates to the Boys' and Girls' State Conventions. This year they have been planning to refurnish and redecorate the men teachers' lounge.

A main project of the board again this year was its support of the school beautiful campaign. They did this by supplying financial aid and a competent advisor, Mrs. J. R. Pringle.

BOARD OF ADMINISTRATION for the Greensboro Public Schools — Seated: Mr. A. S. Lineberry, Mr. E. F. Lucas Jr., Mrs. Margaret A. Harris, Mr. Richard K. Hunter, chairman; Mr. George E. Norman Jr., vice-chairman; and Mr. Richard M. Wilson. Standing: Mr. Kenneth R. Newbold, Dr. W. J. House, Mr. Philip J. Weaver, Superintendent; Mr. R. Thorpe Jones, and Mr. Robert Moseley, school attorney. This board's main purpose is to improve Greensboro's schools.

Greensboro School Board builds new GHS library

The Greensboro Board of Education has countless plans for the future of Greensboro Schools. Most prominent of these are proposals for the construction of new schools and for additions to ones now in existence. At Grimsley a new library is well underway.

Some of the recommendations and predictions for the near future include three new elementary schools in Greensboro, two new junior high schools, and senior high enrollment of 6,600 in four public high schools. Smith and Page will each receive a girls' gym; but to GHS students and faculty, the new library is the most important current project of the school board.

City and county planners expect to have several new elementary and junior high schools, and at least one new senior high school in Greensboro by 1985. Clearly, the Greensboro Board of Education displays good judgment and foresight in planning for future school needs.

SUPERINTENDENT Philip Weaver carefully checks architect's drawings for new schools in Greensboro.

Mr. A. P. Routh completes his 34th year at GHS

MR. A. P. ROUTH is Grimsley's long admired principal.

Students and faculty, patrons of GHS and civic leaders have developed great respect for Mr. A. P. Routh during the thirty-four years he has directed this school. As guide and organizer, he has been outstanding not only at Grimsley, but also throughout this district and state. He is an active member of the North Carolina Education Association, serving on its executive board.

In addition to a principal's duties, Mr. Routh is a financial advisor for many school groups, the business staff of Whirligig, for example. He assists many advisors in making important decisions, as in choosing members for Torchlight.

With Mrs. Routh, he is Grimsley's number one supporter at all concerts, plays, and games.

FRIENDLY FACES in receiving line at Faculty Tea are Mr. and Mrs. Routh, Mr. and Mrs. Weaver.

CHECKING innumerable lists and forms, Mr. Routh needs the assistance of Mrs. Johnson (top). Mrs. Coltrane (at bottom) finds that handing out salary checks is one of her more pleasant tasks as Mr. Routh's secretary.

GRIMSLEY'S assistant principal is Mr. R. L. Glenn.

MOST FAMILIAR faces at Grimsley are Mr. Glenn in the cafeteria at break, and Mrs. Stanton supervising operations in the dean's office.

Mr. Glenn advises Interclub Council, bus drivers

A familiar figure around Grimsley is our assistant principal, Mr. Glenn. At break and lunch he serves as cafeteria cashier, returning pleasant greetings as well as nickels and dimes. Greeting everyone with his traditional "Hi, buddy," he often stops in the halls for a friendly chat.

Interclub Council advisor, advisor for Bus Drivers, ticket seller at athletic events and open house host—these are only a few of Mr. Glenn's additional activities.

Students know him as their able counselor and avid supporter of their school projects. Assistant Principal Glenn is truly a man of many identities.

Mrs. Stanton hands out sick slips, admits tardy students, and checks student attendance and absences. With calm efficiency she performs her duties as Dean of Students.

AT SENIOR TEA Mr. and Mrs. Glenn cordially greet graduating senior.

RETURNING to Grimsley after several years, Mr. Henry Whitaker works with taped lessons in teaching Spanish.

GHS exciting, galvanizing, full of challenge

DISSECTING a frog is a perennially distasteful chore of some Sophomore biology students.

ADVISOR of Sophomore Class, Miss Amy Moore, discusses pencil sale with chairman Bagley.

to largest Soph Class

As September 1966 began, we came to GHS as a multitude of bewildered sophomores. Brought together for the first time as a class, we struggled, not only as a group, but also as individuals to become a unified part of the student body.

Entering into senior high life was at times an agonizing experience, complete with obstinate lockers, confusing computers, and demanding assignments. However, football games, open houses and especially our first Homecoming Dance compensated for all the disadvantages of our lowly status.

In a whirl of campaigning, we finally elected the officers that were to lead our class for the year. Then with enthusiasm indicative of sophomores, we successfully completed the traditional pencil sale. With the proceeds from our efforts, we paid a two-hundred-dollar contribution to the Whirligig, after which we were left with a substantial sum in our treasury.

Now as the year approaches its end, we feel that we are a real part of the school. Sophomores have excelled in every facet of Grimsley life — athletics, clubs, and student government, as well as scholarship. We are the future of our school — the students who will one day bring honor to GHS.

Voight earns position on the varsity football team

GHS SPIRIT is demonstrated by vivacious Page Proffitt.

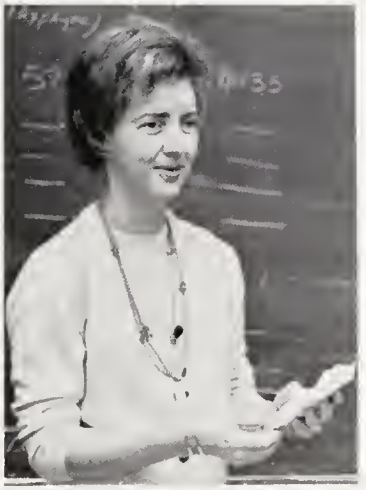
Marshals, novels, and rings are symbolic of Juniors

JUNIORS enjoy exhibiting -- or admiring -- their long-awaited class ring.

THE OPENING scene from "The Whole Truth" highlights the humor that pervades the play.

SOME eleventh grade students, confronted with PSAT's and College Boards, enjoy discussing scores.

ADVISOR Ann Moore discusses ticket sales with the Junior Class Officers: Jim Powell, Sherry Norris, Kay Van Hecke, and President Rig Dees.



As Juniors at the half-way mark in our high school years we were first confronted with electing Junior Marshals. For weeks we worked hard producing The Whole Truth. Then we were faced with PSAT's and College Boards. We presented the Thanksgiving Program, and its solemnity showed our more serious aspects. We read about Captain Ahab and Hester Prynne and created main characters in an original short story. When our rings arrived we could be seen with smiles for our new possession. Finally, we were credited with the Prom given to the Seniors.

Our Junior year now comes to an end. We look back on it, not with regret, but with satisfaction. Two-thirds through high school, we have become concerned with being Seniors. We eye the future with happiness, anxiety, and suspicion, but we are ready for what is ahead.

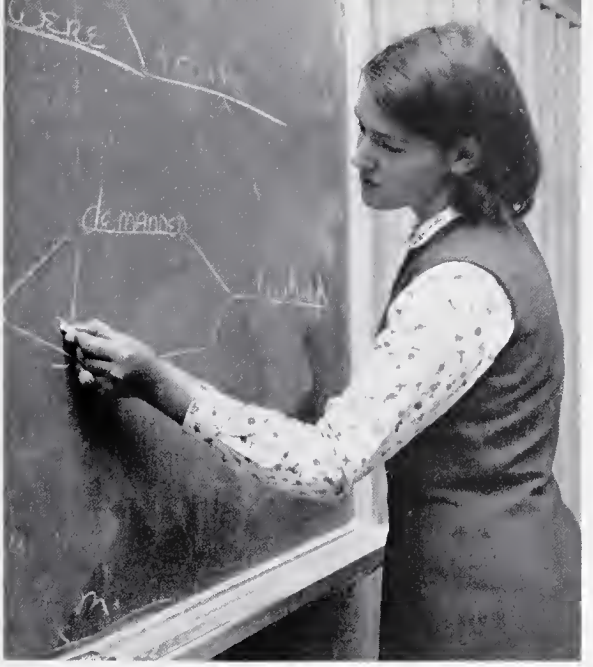
Junior Marshals fulfill their obligations at Grimsley

JUNIOR MARSHALS, who serve at various school functions, include, front row, Watkins, Symmes, Patterson, Buckner, Carruthers, Ditto, Adams, Rollins, Simpson, Oberholtzer, and Hassell. Second row: Clemmons, Israel, Fredrickson, Hall, Foster, Lineberry, Wyatt, McLoud, Van Hecke, and Easterling. Third row: McGregor, Reid, Wilkins, Deal, Gordon, Nodvedt, Hornig, Lauten, Buie, and Snavely. Marshals advisor was Mrs. Genevieve Alexander.

At the beginning of the year each Junior homeroom was responsible for electing a boy and a girl to serve as Junior Marshals. There resulted thirty-four Juniors who elected Joe Allred as their chief. They soon learned their purpose as Junior Marshals: to collect tickets, to hand out programs, and to usher the audience to their seats. This large group, divided into three smaller sections, rotated at marshalling for concerts, plays, Graduation, and other events.

Minor inconveniences faced many of the marshals. The girls had difficulty in wearing gloves while distributing programs, and the boys had trouble adjusting to their traditional blue-and-white marshal sashes. However these inconveniences merely became memories for the marshals in the work they did. They served GHS well, living up to the standards set before them.

CHIEF MARSHAL Joe Allred receives aid from Advisor Alexander, before an important engagement.



DIAGRAMMING at the board is still a part of some Junior English courses.

FOR SEVERAL days the hall is crowded with eager Juniors ordering their rings.

To the eminent Class of 1967, graduation signifies

TWELVE LABORIOUS YEARS are climaxed in a single hour . . . reluctantly we leave, confidently prepared to pursue our uncertain future. A gray gown, a diploma, a handshake — and it's all over.

the fulfillment of today and the promise of tomorrow

The auditorium grows quiet as the sound of "Pomp and Circumstance" softly fills the air. We march in, one after another in our gray gowns, peering at our families through bouncing tassels. Graduation — a dream come true. We gaze at our peers, those with whom we have shared the excitement of our class rings, the agony of college boards, and now our final night of triumph.

As we file into our seats, memories of three years come flooding back. Orientation, August 29, 1964, brought the Class of 1967 together for the first time in our high school career. Although seated together in the auditorium as Sophomores, there was an air of disunity. We were a group, yet our coming from different states, different towns and different schools hindered our becoming a functioning class. Gradually this separateness dissolved without our awareness. It is not easy to pinpoint the cause of the change, for it is an inward response which developed in each of us. We shared common bonds, linked together by an immense pride in our school and an undefinable sense of loyalty toward our classmates and faculty. Could it really be so long ago that we sold pencils and stood in awe of the upper classmen?

1966 GOVERNOR'S SCHOOL participants — seated: Pyron, Breger, Crocker, Rauch. Standing: Freedman, McArthur, Gibson, Rhoades, Lybrand.

Everyone felt relieved when we attained our berth as Juniors, for there could be no more jeering insults. Then we realized the importance of our class. Our ability to be school officials was exemplified in our careful selection of Junior Marshals. We contributed to our school in two major ways that year with our inspiring Thanksgiving program and Tom Sawyer, the rollicking play which proved to be a profitable success.

Unbelievingly, the two years passed with great rapidity, and we were now the ones to be looked up to. United in this respect, we had a position to maintain as examples to the underclassmen and representatives of GHS, an honor which we regarded as most high. As Seniors we also had responsibilities accompanying our status. The breathless whirl of diversified projects and programs football and basketball seasons flourished with the effort of many of us in cutting and selling ribbons to promote school spirit. The memorable Christmas Pageant, "Star of Wonder," stirred our emotions with its true meaning of the season. Class Day is always the favorite of Seniors, and we, the Class of '67, were no exceptions. The last assembly, the final verse of the Alma Mater — small things but they will remain in our hearts through all our lives.

"Pomp and Circumstance" once again drifts through the air and the final row marches out. With us we take not only our diplomas and memories, but also our ideals and goals for a successful future. Hopes soaring and spirits high, we, the Class of 1967, are ready to face the world.

RIBBON cutting and selling is the Seniors' money-making project for their section in Whirligig.

Merlin the Magician mysteriously transformed the front lawn of GHS into King Arthur's Court for the 1966 May Day Pageant. The sun shone brightly and Medieval music wafted through the air. Huttie Kent as the lovely Guinevere was escorted by Steve Cumbie, who portrayed King Arthur. In honor of the Queen, her seventeen beautiful attendants and their escorts danced the minuet. Gallant knights dueled, and the lively peasant girls performed the traditional Maypole dance to entertain Queen and subjects.

The presentation of another court, Homecoming, highlighted a successful football season for the Whirlies. Selected on the basis of school spirit, the twenty-six girls were sponsored by senior players. The candidates and their escorts were introduced in a half-time ceremony. Student Body President Curtis Weaver crowned Connie Giles 1966 Homecoming Queen and proclaimed Ruth Dance first runner-up. A motorcade bearing the lovely ladies of the court climaxed the evening with a colorful procession.

ABOUT TO BE CROWNED Homecoming Queen by Student President Curtis Weaver, Connie Giles radiates surprise and happiness. Last year's queen Deedee Zane and escort Drew Anthony look on approvingly.

Mrs. Betty Hand and Mrs. Edith Ammons of Meyer's Department Store

Mr. Alfred Pickerel and Mr. C. O. Gentry of School Pictures, Incorporated

Mr. Frank Fleming and Mr. Earl Powell of Washburn Printing Company

Mr. Ralph VanDyke and Miss Molly Flanders of Jahn and Ollier Engraving Company

Mr. Tom Northington, Mr. John Cathey,
Mr. John Page, and Mr. Roy Matherly of the Greensboro Daily News-Record

Mrs. Margaret Hadden

Mrs. Kathryn McEntire

Miss Ida Belle Moore

Mrs. Jessie Coltrane

Mrs. Mary Ann Johnson

Mrs. Martha Hundley

Mr. R. Lody Glenn

Mr. A. P. Routh

And a very special and sincere thank you to

Miss Virginia Powell

without whose able guidance, patient understanding, and keen wit
this 1967 Whirligig would not have been possible.

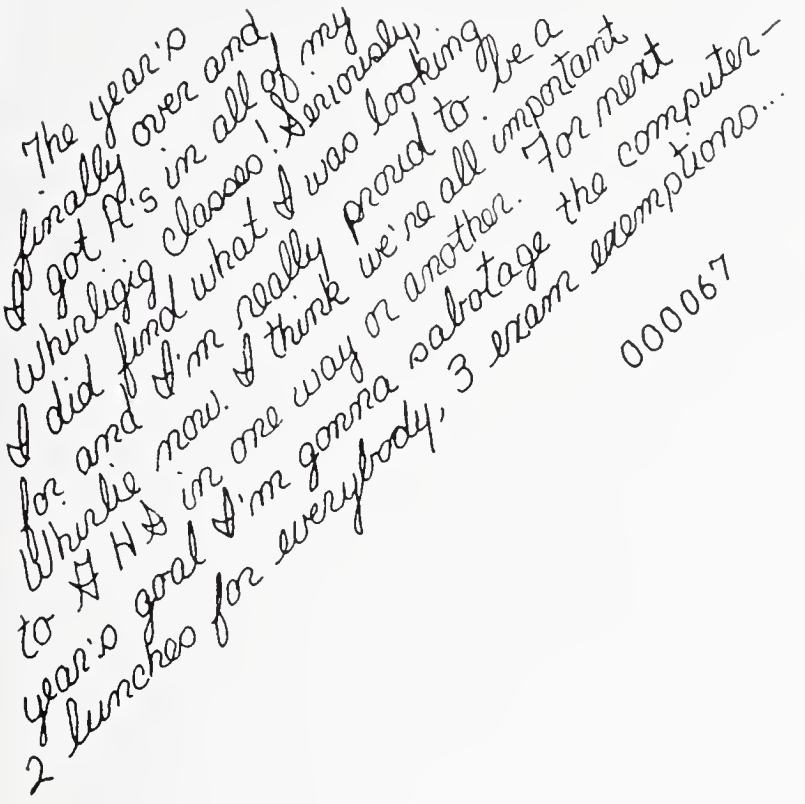
Susan, Linda, and Staff

Autographs



The year's finally over and I got it's in all of my whirligig classes! Seriously, I did find what I was looking for and I'm really proud to be a Whirlie now. I think we're all important to ☆ HS in one way or another. For next year's goal I'm gonna sabotage the computer— 2 lunches for everybody, 3 exam exemptions...
